is to play the Carlisle Indians in the feature event, the Army is to have as its opponent Colgate University, and the University of Pennsylvania meet at Annapolis.

Exceptional interest attaches to the Indian-Pittsburgh game, because Glen Warner, now in charge of the latter, was the mainspring of foot ball at the Carlisle school for many years. Warner will give the Redskins the best that Pittsburgh has in an effort to completely swamp them. It is possible, though, that the Carlisle men will though. There is no question about Carlisle being stronger now than last is season, and it has not been meeting with very great reverses, though it has failed to play such wonderful foot ball as that which characterized its work three or four years ago.

The Army faces a stiff proposition in Colgate. The soldiers probably will be the play better foot ball this week than in any of their previous games if they are to win. Colgate mean more than one occasion. Such probably will be tesse again.

The ainst the apparently weakest shound that to be true probably will be tesse again.

The sainst the apparently weakest shound that the true probably will be the sleven the Midshipmen have had in recent fears. ability in gathering in the sheets. Figures sent out from Boston yesterday show that $86,939.70 will be divided on a 60 per cent basis to the members of the winning team in the series and a 40 per cent share to the losing contenders.

$3,799.98 to Each Winner.

Now, by a mathematical calculation

we find that each of the twenty-three players on the coming world championship team will annex something like

$3,779.98. The four games in which the teams have played have taken up less than eight hours, but figuring the whole thing on an eight-hour basis we find that they will be rewarded with a salary that approximates $473 for every satary that approximates we sixty minutes.

There are $,760 hours in a year. Keeping that in view, we find that if these belters of base ball could keep up the same average continuously they would earn an annual wage—or, at least, they would get an annual wage of $4,143,-480.

Think of it! Can you beat it? No wonder Duffy Lewis can go back to the fence and haul them down or come tearing in and pick them off his shoetops right behind shortstop. Last year this fortunate youth was shunted from the Cardinals to the Braves and got in the maelstrom of success that came when the Braves sent the Athletics down to four consecutive defeats.

No one blamed Whitted when he let out a howl at the beginning of this season and declared he just wouldn't go to Philadelphia. His wounded feelings were assuaged when he received a rise in salary. Now look at him.

Then there is Bert Niehoff, who traveled from Cincinnati to the shores of the Schujkill. All that Bert has done in this series has been to mess up the chances of a Phil's victory. Mayhaps he will do something today to show that he appreciates a little stipend. But what's the use. The orchestra will play "I Wish I Had Raised My Boy to Be a Ball Player."

plate looks ordinarily, it becomes thing of romantic appeal after it i its production, and through a miniature porarily in the Dulin & Martin Company store, on F street, Washington people are to have an opportunity to witness these processes.

The Onondaga potteries of Syracuse, N. Y., established in 1858, and among the oldest in the country, are sending out three of their artists, who are demonstrating the manufacture of fine table chinas from the clay to completion, with the exception of the actual firing in the kilns.

The clay is formed from a mixture

Totals...422 439 485 of eight different kinds of clay, from of eight different kinds of day, from which the impurities are drawn by means of a huge magnet. After the clay has been worked to the proper plasticity it is applied by the hands of experts to molds. The particular expert who is demonstrating in Washington is William Baker, who has been with the Onondaga potteries for twenty-eight years, a fact which accounts for the consummate skill with which he molds the delicate clay on a swiftly revolving table.

In Kiln Forty-Eight Hours.

From the mold the plates are placed n the drying or biscuit kilns at white heat for forty-eight hours. Removed from this, they are dipped into the glaze, which is really nothing but thick cream. Then they receive their second firing of from twenty to thirty hours, when they are ready for the application of the design. The design which is being used for the local demonstration is the St. Alban, a conventional pattern in red, green, blue and

Perhaps the application of the design is the most interesting of the processes. The design is printed originally, its colors being developed by a complicated lithographing process, on a thin material known as the decalcomaine sheet, protected by a heavier paper.

After the plate has been marked with an indelible pencil to show where the design is to be placed and has been covered with a thin sizing, the pattern is applied, face down, and pressed into the sizing. With a sponge water is then applied to the protecting paper, the moisture separating the paper from the decalcomaine sheet.
